Rollins MBA
Florida's Most Prestigious

Four Classmates Stay Connected

By Lynn Penyak

It was early August 1984 and I was working for Loft's Proprietary Seed Company. Karen (Casey) and I had attended Vanderbilt together and she was preparing to move to Florida to begin grad school at Crummer – so I decided to apply. Two weeks before school started I contacted Steve Gauthier and completed my application. Two days before school started I received a phone call letting me know I had been accepted – so I sold my car and bought a plane ticket. Karen picked me up at the airport and we went straight to the first of many class socials, where I met Kent Smith. He let me move into his apartment and sleep in the living room. The next morning, orientation began.”—Steve Sage

“I grew up in Winter Park and attended Rollins College for my undergrad degree. I applied to Stanford and Harvard for my MBA, but I must have checked a box on the GMAT exam to receive information about scholarships from schools other than Stanford and Harvard. The Crummer School contacted me and offered a full scholarship.”—Philip Rich

Radically different paths brought Sage and Rich to the Crummer School. Throw in classmates like Karen Casey and Jim Foley and you'll see why their experiences were unique, fun, and a highlight of their lives.

Recently I had the opportunity to meet with all four classmates to learn more about their memories of the Crummer School, and this is what they had to say.

Karen Casey

Current job: Account Executive,

Jim Foley

Steven Sage

What are your fondest memories of the Crummer School?

Foley: “Class parties were the most fun... we really got to know each other.”

Rich: “The class itself was great – we were unusually close and had a lot of energy. The class behind us thought we were nuts – they were probably right!”

Sage: “The actual environment of Crummer – we had a great class and learned a lot but we also had fun.”

What was the most important thing you learned at the Crummer School?

Rich: “The ability to look at a problem, analyze it, and act on it.”

Foley: “To know your stuff. Knowledge is king. Also, keep in touch with your classmates and always network.”

How did the Crummer School prepare you for success?

Casey: “It showed me that persistence pays off, and that you need to have balance in your life.”

Foley: “I learned that nothing takes the place of work, no matter what your specialty is.”

Sage: “It taught me how to listen and the importance that active listening holds within a corporate setting.”

Advice to today's MBA students:

Sage: “Don't be discouraged with your first job if you don't apply what you learned at Crummer. As you grow in the company you will apply more.”

Rich: “Find a great business leader and learn all you can from him/her.”

Casey: “If you do what you love, you'll never work a day in your life.”

Foley: “Two years goes fast – make the best use of time and get to know your classmates. They can become great friends as well as great networking sources in your business career.”

What comes to mind when you hear “The Crummer School”?

Foley: “People.”

Casey: “Gratitude for all of the opportunities I have because of the education I received there.”

Sage: “Taylor Avenue. Six of us lived in two houses less than a block apart!”

Rich: “We held a unique position with the administration going through accreditation. (note: the Crummer School was accredited in April of 1985 by AACSB – the 215th MBA program in the world to hold this distinction.)

As a class, we were coming of age at the same time the School was coming into its own.”

What would your classmates say about you?

Rich: “I hope they would say I was serious about those things that are serious (it's a short list) and not at all about the rest.”

Casey: “I've become much nicer and more mellow in my old age!”

Sage: “I'm willing to have fun.”

Foley: “I'm fun, crazy, and a good friend.”

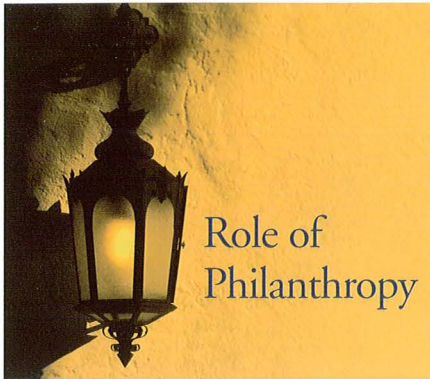

The Crummer School Alumni office will be holding a 20th reunion celebration for the MBA classes of 1986 next Fall – be on the lookout for more details!

“I can't wait to see everyone... First, it's so much fun to gather and reminisce... Second, I can't wait to catch up on everyone's family lives and careers... And third, it will be a real treat to see the School, the city and the professors we had who are still there!”

—Karen Casey

“I can't believe it has been nearly 20 years since our “Days of Crummer”. It will be great hooking up with everyone, reliving the past, and forecasting the future (we can “diddle with the model” as Dr. Plane used to say). To my fellow classmates, I hope to see everyone there!”

—Jim Foley

As a private educational institution, the importance of philanthropy has been a constant throughout the history of the Roy E. Crummer Graduate School of Business. Our growing reputation and stature make possible opportunities that can only be capitalized on with support from alumni and friends.

During the past year, the Crummer School has again been touched by the generosity of more than 600 individuals, corporations, and foundations. We recognize and are thankful for each of these heartfelt gifts. Together, they allow us to offer the superior education that has helped us maintain our position as Florida's Most Prestigious MBA.

The Honor Roll of Donors acknowledges all gifts to the Crummer School between June 1, 2004 and May 31, 2005. Every effort has been made to ensure the accuracy and completeness of our list, and we apologize for any errors or omissions. To report a discrepancy or for more information, please contact the Office of Alumni Relations and Development by phone at 407-646-2537 or by email at crummer.alumni@rollins.edu.

For those donors whose names are not listed here because they wish to remain anonymous, we are grateful for your support.

FIAT LUX SOCIETY

The Crummer School is proud to announce the membership of the 2004-2005 Fiat Lux Society – created to represent the supporters who have committed a minimum of $1,000 per year.

Within the Fiat Lux Society, members are recognized according to their level of giving. All members are recognized on the annual Honor Roll of Donors plaque located at the main entrance to Crummer Hall in the Charles and Lynn Steinmetz Lobby, and each receives a distinctive gold lapel pin.

Honor Roll ...recognizing those who give

Since its founding in 1957, the Crummer School has forged numerous intellectual and educational partnerships with corporations, and in turn, those corporations have invested substantially in the School. Companies have supported and benefited from consulting practica, student internships, a wide range of faculty projects and books, and job placement.

By making gifts to the Crummer School, corporations strengthen their relationship with one of the nation's top MBA programs, gain exposure to an important source of intellectual talent, advance the economic development of the region, increase visibility among future customers and employees, and encourage philanthropy among their employees.

We wish to extend our appreciation to those firms who made a contribution to the Crummer School during the past fiscal year.

Matching Gift Companies

Your employer, or your spouse's employer, may multiply your contribution through a matching gifts program. Most of these companies match on a dollar-per-dollar basis, but some match 2:1 or 3:1.

Each company has its own rules regarding the types of gifts that qualify, and who is eligible to participate. To obtain a matching gift form, contact your human resources department and then enclose the completed form with your donation. The form will be certified and then returned to your employer.

The following companies matched the donations of alumni during the 2004-2005 fiscal year:

Dean's Message

While Donald Trump garners headlines with his exploits on "The Apprentice," business schools across the nation compete for a smaller number of students entering MBA programs. At the Crummer School, our reputation as one of the leading MBA programs in the Southeast drives quality students to our open houses and preview events. More importantly, referrals from alumni and corporate leaders make a noticeable difference as students seek the best program to fit their educational needs.

Providing a high quality MBA experience for full-time students and working professionals is enhanced and complemented by the commitment of volunteers, donors, and executives who return to campus to share their knowledge and street smarts with our students. Our new integrated approach to "Link, Learn, and Lead," helps engage and involve alumni, entrepreneurs, and senior business leaders, and has begun paying dividends for our students and community.

How can you play a role?

LINK...Stay connected.

One of the benefits of your affiliation with a nationally ranked business school is access to a network of smart, motivated, savvy business executives and entrepreneurs who understand the benefits of staying connected as a key to long term success. Attend our functions, use the new alumni e-mail service, and keep in touch through our Web site.

LEARN...A lifelong endeavor.

A commitment to education is the foundation for all successful business leaders. The Crummer School offers opportunities for you and your colleagues to continue to grow your expertise in areas important to your career. Attend our Leadership Lecture Series, enroll your employees in the MBA program or executive education courses, or join the Center for Entrepreneurship.

LEAD...Be a catalyst for positive change.

As a leader in your organization and community, it is our sincere hope that you will share your talents and experiences with others to make a difference in your community and across the globe. Additionally, the Crummer School needs people to serve as mentors, speak in classrooms, recruit our students and place interns, and serve as host companies for consulting practica.

The preceding pages recognize the more than 600 alumni, corporations, and friends who made a donation to the Crummer School during the 2004-2005 academic year. Financial support is another important way that alumni and friends can ensure our future success. On behalf of the students and faculty who benefit from your generosity and commitment to make the Crummer School better, thank you.

Sincerely yours,

Dean Craig M. McAllaster

Rollins College

Lewis M. Duncan was installed as the 14th President of Rollins College in a tradition-rich ceremony on Saturday, April 9, 2005. More than 500 guests attended the event, which featured comments by dignitaries including the Lieutenant Governor of Florida, Toni Jennings; James Wright, president of Dartmouth College; Winter Park Mayor, Kenneth "Kip" Marchman; Dr. John Churchill, secretary of the Phi Beta Kappa Society; and representatives of the staff, the alumni, the students, and the faculty of Rollins College.

In his installation address, President Duncan celebrated the history of Rollins and looked to the future:

"Collectively, we continue to distinguish ourselves at Rollins today by our commitment to excellence in all of our academic endeavors, by our willingness to innovate in exploring new approaches to student-centered learning, and by our building of community through the genuine collegiality of our campus and through our dedication to the principles of service to society, active citizenship and enlightened leadership. Today we reaffirm these values, we reaffirm our commitment to the principles of excellence, innovation and community. And as Rollins College's 14th president, I so too pledge to serve, to act, and to lead as together we work to provide the very finest in comprehensive liberal education."

Martin Bell Scholarship

Ignacio Esteban has been awarded the Martin L. Bell Scholarship for non-profit executives by the Crummer Graduate School of Business at Rollins College. Esteban is executive director of the Florida Community Loan Fund, the only federally certified community development financial institution in Florida. The Loan Fund provides capital and technical assistance to qualifying nonprofit organizations with insufficient access to capital from conventional sources. Esteban began the Crummer School's Executive MBA (EMBA) program in July.

"Having worked with hundreds of talented and dedicated nonprofit executives I recognize how competitive the selection process is. I also value the great responsibility that the selection committee has entrusted to Scholarship winners," said Esteban. "As a Martin Bell Scholar, I will work tirelessly to ensure that the academic and professional formation the Crummer School's Executive MBA offers is put to use for the benefit of disadvantaged people and the nonprofits that serve them."

Each year, in recognition of the importance of the non-profit sector to our community, the Crummer School awards the Martin L. Bell Scholarship to a senior-level employee of a non-profit organization. The scholarship provides full tuition, notebook computer, books, meals and an international study trip. Established in 1988 in honor of Dr. Martin L. Bell, former director of the Executive MBA program, the Bell Scholarship has been awarded to executives from 15 local charities.

Venture Plan Competition

And the winner is.... NoblePlay. On May 19, 2005, Theresa Anderson and Linnette Padron emerged victorious with a plan to introduce a series of puzzlebooks for children ages 5-9 which focus on social issues such as Ocean

Conservation, Caring for Your Community, and Rainforest Conservation. These puzzlebooks are a fun way for adults to share their values with children. Each puzzlebook will help support a chosen charitable organization, such as the "Save the Whales" foundation, with a portion of the proceeds donated to the charity.

In addition to their $3,000 1st prize winnings, the team will receive legal services from GrayRobinson, courtesy of Center Board Member, William Grimm.

Center for Leadership Development

Leadership Certificate Program Launched

The Center launched a new leadership certificate program this year. Nineteen individuals successfully completed the program by attending a series of events, performing community service, and meeting the general leadership program requirements. From these, one individual was awarded the Distinguished Leader of Merit Award. Erica Sorrell was chosen based on her outstanding leadership development plan, successful completion of academic requirements, and outstanding leadership merit as judged by both faculty and community leaders.
