MILLS MEMORIAL CENTER

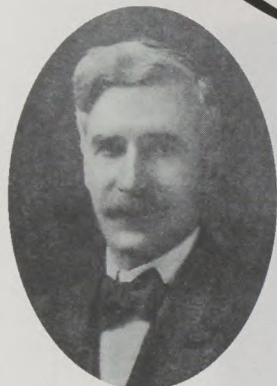

THE MILLS MEMORIAL CENTER, FORMERLY THE MILLS LIBRARY, IS THE HUB OF STUDENT ACTIVITIES AT ROLLINS. RENOVATED IN 1987, MILLS WAS BUILT IN 1951 AS THE COLLEGE'S SECOND LIBRARY. IT WAS DESIGNED BY RENOWNED ARCHITECT JAMES GAMBLE ROGERS II, WHOSE FIRM, HEADQUARTERED IN WINTER PARK, HAS GIVEN SHAPE AND CHARACTER TO THE ROLLINS CAMPUS FOR HALF A CENTURY, HAVING DESIGNED OR RENOVATED MORE THAN 20 OF ITS BUILDINGS.

■ Special thanks to Rollins archivists Trudy LaFramboise and Kate Reich, whose research and work on finding photographs contributed greatly to the historical campus photo tour that winds throughout the Honor Roll. As keepers of the College's historical documents and extensive Florida history collection, Kate and Trudy, with their knowledge, persistence, and cheerful manner, are an invaluable aid to researchers.

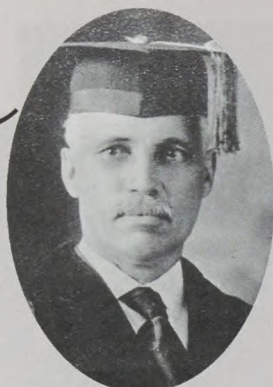

Honor Roll of Donors

This special issue of the Rollins Alumni Record honors those alumni, friends, corporate, and foundation donors who contributed to a record year of giving, demonstrating their commitment to and faith in the educational mission of Rollins College.

Hugh Ferguson McKean '30 '72H: Gentleman and Scholar, by Lorrie Kyle Ramey '70.

We celebrate the life and career of the late Hugh McKean, a central figure in the development of Rollins College and Winter Park. As Rollins' president, he guided the College through some of its most turbulent years, from the financial strains of the early fifties through the social upheavals of the sixties. A lifetime devotee of the arts as both practitioner and collector, he and his wife enabled Winter Park to enjoy their dearest treasures in a "state-of-the-art" facility: the Charles Hosmer Morse Museum of American Art.

BUILDING ON THE LEGACY

This Honor Roll issue of the Rollins Alumni Record pays tribute to the thousands of loyal alumni and friends who gave to the College in 1994-95, as well as to two important Rollins legends: the late President Emeritus Hugh F. McKean, and the late Dr. Robert O. Juergens, a giant of the Rollins theatre.

As you peruse the list of donors and tour the architecture of Rollins through the years—a transformation made possible by the continuing support of alumni and friends—remember that each person and institution who makes a gift is part of the lifeblood of the College, allowing it to preserve its legacy of educational excellence and extend it to future generations.

ROLLINS COLLEGE

THE PRESIDENT

1000 Holt Avenue - 2711
Winter Park, FL 32789-4499
(407) 646-2120 • FAX (407) 646-1501

Dear Rollins Donors:

Three cheers for you and the second consecutive record-breaking year for The Rollins Fund. Thanks to your generosity, we surpassed our $1.75-million goal by more than $40,000. We are grateful for the continued support of our faithful donors who contribute annually, and encouraged by the support of those of you who gave for the first time or renewed your giving.

We could not have achieved this outstanding success without the hard work of dedicated volunteers like Jack Myers '69 '70, national chair of The Rollins Fund, Nancy and Bob Nesbit, chairs of the Parents Committee, and Nancy and Ben Abberger '43, chairs of the Friends Committee. Many thanks to them and everyone who worked so diligently on the College's behalf this year.

Rollins Fund dollars are included in the budget each year and are used in areas across the College, including financial aid; faculty support; academic, cocurricular, and community outreach programming; library and laboratory resources; technology; and the facilities and grounds maintenance that keeps Rollins looking so beautiful. Ironically, that beautiful image of which we are so proud detracts from our ability to raise funds: the public, and even some of our alumni and friends, think that Rollins is a wealthy college. In fact, neither our endowment nor our level of annual support equals that of our peers in academic reputation and longevity.

To ensure a healthy future for Rollins, we must continue to increase giving and participation. We have made real progress toward our long-range goals for the College, and I know that we can count on you as we work to provide for Rollins' success in the twenty-first century.

Sincerely,

Rita Bornstein
President

FAVORITE STUDIOS, INC.

We spent a few short years at Rollins College at a formative period of our lives. That time lives within us as an enduring legacy. Each of us, to a greater or lesser degree, left our mark on Rollins, helping to build a fine educational institution.

This issue of the Rollins Alumni Record, themed, "Building on the Legacy," honors giants of the past and those whose record contributions in 1994-95 help secure Rollins' future.

This magazine also takes you on a visual tour of the Rollins campus over the years, chronicling architectural developments and depicting how the College has adapted to changing needs. And, of course, the Record would not be complete without Class News.

A WORD FROM JACK MYERS III '69 '70, NATIONAL CHAIR OF THE ROLLINS FUND

Thank you to everyone who contributed to Rollins this year. Gifts small and large propelled us to great heights. The Rollins Fund recorded its most successful year in history, surpassing the $1.75 million goal with a total of $1,790,511 raised. For the second consecutive year, alumni contributed over $1 million. Together with the generous support of parents, friends, corporations and foundations, we went over the top!

You can be proud of the progress the College is making in raising support for restricted projects as well. Two commitments received in this fiscal year are particularly noteworthy: a $1.25 million challenge grant from the Edyth Bush Charitable Foundation toward the construction of a new executive education center at the Crummer Graduate School of Business, and $1 million from the Christian A. Johnson Endeavor Foundation to create an institute to support experimentation and innovation in teaching. In addition, progress on the Campus Center proceeds, with over $4 million committed toward that $6-million project.

These are exciting times for our small college on the shores of Lake Virginia.

Trustees, alumni, parents, and friends of the College have volunteered countless hours to achieve these impressive results. Personal solicitations for gifts, phone calls to encourage reunion attendance, service on boards and committees, career counsel for students and young alumni, letters to classmates and colleagues for gifts to The Rollins Fund, and encouragement to high school seniors considering admission to Rollins are just some of the many ways that so many of you have helped.

Please know that all of your efforts are sincerely appreciated. There is no limit to what we can achieve together. I hope that you will continue in your service to the College and I encourage others to join us in building on the legacy. You will be glad you did.

YOU CAN HELP

The stellar results of The Rollins Fund over the past two years, together with the outstanding resurgence of participation in Reunions and other alumni activities indicates that we are definitely on the right track.

Since 1991, the College has been recruiting alumni volunteers at an unprecedented rate. Alumni asking alumni to participate in a variety of ways at Rollins has made all our alumni programs and events more dynamic and more successful.

Yet there are still challenges ahead:

- Alumni participation in The Rollins Fund fell in FY95 from 27% to 23%.
You can help reach classmates and friends.
- Alumni love to read about their classmates in the Alumni Record.
You can help gather and edit class news.
- Approximately 25% of our alumni relocate without notifying the College.
You can help locate them.
- Alumni move to new areas and are unaware of other Rollins alumni living in the area.
You can help keep them connected to Rollins.
- Alumni should be encouraged to reconnect with their Rollins' classmates by attending Reunions.
You can help build Reunion momentum and excitement.
- In every community there are high school students who would be excellent candidates for Rollins.
You can help by encouraging them to apply.
- Rollins students and young alumni need career guidance.
You can help advise and counsel them.

Volunteering for Rollins is interesting, exciting, and rewarding. We have volunteer tasks that take one evening of your time; others that require a more lengthy commitment. The choice is yours. Please get involved.

Call 1-800-799-ALUM today.

Impressive giving by alumni in Reunion classes was instrumental in reaching this year's ambitious Rollins Fund goal. These wonderful class gifts are directly attributable to class agents and committee members' enthusiastic involvement and commitment, culminating in another successful year for The Rollins Fund.

The Class of 1945, celebrating their 50th Reunion, once again wins the participation cup with 42 percent, overtaking the Class of 1950 who were the forerunners at Reunion. Thank you to Kermit Dell, Judith Sutherland Galbraith, and Jessie McCreery Reed for assisting in this great effort.

Under the leadership of Ross Fleischmann, the Class of 1955 contributed the largest Reunion gift of $115,902 to The Rollins Fund.

And the Class of 1985 wins the Young Alumni Award, with 25 percent participation. Head Agent Grey Squires deserves recognition for leading this class endeavor.

The exceptional effort of the Class of 1970 culminated with a gift of $78,695 in honor of their 25th, tripling their Reunion class gift over the previous year.

Thanks to all alumni involved in making Reunion such a success.

Entrepreneur Arthur Zimand, former CEO and creative mind behind the successful Vistana Resort in Central Florida, is a loyal supporter of students who attend the Rollins College Hamilton Holt School. A member of the Holt Board of Advisers since 1987, Zimand has contributed scholarships for approximately 29 undergraduates of the Rollins evening studies division. In July he presented an additional $50,000 gift to establish a scholarship endowment for Holt students.

"It's very rewarding to see these individuals graduate and fulfill their dreams," says Zimand, who has a "soft spot" for those struggling to complete their college education. As a very young man,

ARTHUR ZIMAND

Zimand, now 52, attended several colleges and studied architecture, design, and business; but he never obtained a degree.

"I wasn't a very good student. I was undecided about what I wanted to be when I grew up, and I had what today they call attention deficit disorder." Zimand became discouraged when he couldn't manage difficult subjects such as calculus, a course required to complete architectural school at the University of Miami, and a subject many consider formidable.

Although dropping out of college has not impeded his success, Zimand believes his career might have been "a little less stressful—a little easier," if he had obtained a degree. "A college degree doesn't ensure that you will be successful," he says. "But it certainly gives you a leg up by preparing you with discipline, organizational skills, and learning to deal with others. Many young adults today take a college education for granted," although Hamilton Holt students could not be included among those who take their education for granted. "Many Holt students are single mothers, working full time—sometimes at two jobs—to support their families while going to college. You've got to give them credit. It's admirable. I know the scholarship money I give them will not be wasted."

Like many Holt students, Zimand attended college at night while working various jobs in his native Miami. He was an apprentice draftsman for Morris Lapidus, a prominent architectural firm in Miami known for the Fountainbleu and Eden Roc Hotels, and he worked for a bank where he learned a bit about finance. Eventually he shifted to real estate development, where his skills and interests merged in business, architectural design, and sales and marketing. This merging of interests and talents seems to have been a pivotal point in his career. Zimand became assistant to the president of Lehigh Acres, a $50 million company in Fort Myers, when he was only 22. Such a key position, as well as others, enabled him to learn product development packaging, customer service, sales, and direct marketing—all the pertinent skills that he contributed to the extraordinary success of Vistana Resort which he helped found in 1980.

Initially hired as a consultant, he was quickly made a partner in the start-up of the resort, now a multimillion dollar business located in Orlando and Hutchinson Island, Florida. Vistana was recently selected one of the top 500 resorts in the world by readers of Conde Nast Traveler Magazine. In June Zimand sold his share of the business. He has now formed AZ Associates, a consulting firm that provides services to the growing time-share industry in the Southeast.

"It's time for a change," he says. "Now I have more time to concentrate on developing new products and new sales and marketing techniques, aspects of the business I consider most creative and enjoyable."

He seems relieved that he no longer has the responsibility of 1200 employees nor the management burdens of regulatory and employment issues that affect complex organizations today. Zimand is now looking for new resort "start-up projects" in areas outside Florida. He is particularly interested in working with time-share developers who are "experiencing challenges in these changing times" with sales and marketing techniques.

For young people contemplating success in business, Zimand suggests they embrace the values that have served him well during his long career: patience, perseverance, honesty, timing, and "treating people right," because "whatever you do comes back to you."—LTC

"SET LIKE A GEM AMID THE WATERS BLUE": ROLLINS' PRIME LOCATION ON THE BEAUTIFUL SHORES OF LAKE VIRGINIA HAS BEEN A DRAWING CARD SINCE THE COLLEGE FIRST OPENED ITS DOORS IN 1885. IN 1975, THE FAMILIAR OLD DIVING TOWER, WHICH HAD BECOME A ROLLINS LANDMARK, CAME DOWN TO MAKE WAY FOR THE ALFOND POOL, A GIFT OF HAROLD ALFOND. THE POOL QUICKLY BECAME ONE OF THE MOST FREQUENTED STUDENT MEETING PLACES ON CAMPUS.

CARNEGIE HALL

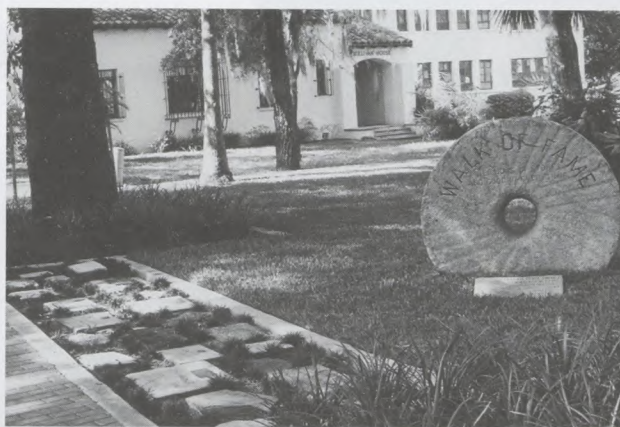

ALUMNI FREQUENTLY COMMENT THAT WHILE ROLLINS HAS SEEN INEVITABLE TRANSFORMATION OVER THE YEARS, THE CAMPUS STILL HAS A REASSURING SAMENESS. CARNEGIE HALL, BUILT IN 1909 AS THE COLLEGE'S FIRST LIBRARY, IS A PERFECT EXAMPLE. WHILE IT HAS UNDERGONE SEVERAL FACELIFTS AND CHANGES IN FUNCTION (IT NOW HOUSES THE OFFICE OF ADMISSION AND OTHER ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICES), THE BUILDING BEARS AN UNMISTAKABLE RESEMBLANCE TO ITS ORIGINAL STATE.

BUILDING ON THE LEGACY

WALK OF FAME

THE WALK OF FAME, WHICH LIES AT THE HEART OF THE ROLLINS CAMPUS, WAS CREATED IN 1929 BY FORMER PRESIDENT HAMILTON HOLT WITH HIS DONATION OF 200 STONES FROM THE HOMES AND BIRTHPLACES OF FAMOUS PEOPLE. AT THE HEAD OF THE WALK STANDS A MILLSTONE, INSCRIBED WITH THE SHAKESPEAREAN QUOTE "SERMONS IN STONES AND GOOD IN EVERYTHING," WHICH HOLT HAD SHIPPED FROM NEAR HIS CONNECTICUT HOME. THE OAK-SHADED WALKWAY OUTLINES THE MILLS LAWN—BETTER KNOWN AS THE "HORSESHOE"—WHICH HAS BEEN A FAVORITE SPOT FOR OUTDOOR FROLICKING, RELAXATION, AND THE OCCASIONAL CLASS LECTURE FOR GENERATIONS OF ROLLINS STUDENTS.

As students during the late '60s, Tommy duPont and his wife, Ruthy Lawrence duPont, found Rollins a wonderful environment for taking risks and accomplishing personal goals. Little wonder, then, that all three of their daughters have chosen to continue the legacy.

Currently a parent trustee, Tom duPont has had an affinity for Rollins since setting foot on the campus over 25 years ago. The Wilmington, Delaware native says he chose Rollins because of a desire to study political science in a warm climate and friends already enrolled there. He quickly adapted to campus life. Active in several sports, he served as president of Kappa Alpha Fraternity and the Inter-Fraternity Council. He was presented the Algernon Sydney Sullivan Award for his campus leadership and involvement in numerous activities.

Following graduation in 1970, he and Ruth married and moved north, where he continued his political science studies at the University of Delaware. After earning his master's degree in 1972, duPont was elected to the Delaware House of Representatives, where he served a two-year term. He then went to work for the Wilmington Trust Company, and in 1975, he moved his young family to Tampa to work for Budget Rent-A-Car of Florida. Ten years later, he formed duPont Publishing Company, which produces and distributes worldwide The duPont Registry, a Buyer's Guide of Fine Automobiles, and The duPont Registry, a Buyer's Guide of Fine Homes.

duPont says his experiences at Rollins served as good preparation for what was to follow graduation. "Rollins is kind of there for the picking. One of the best parts about it is that you can make your own statement. You can enjoy yourself, be noticed, and have an impact. You can do that as a parent as well. Ruthy and I have been active on the Parents Committee for three years now. We've raised some money. We've raised some discussions about issues at the College, and we've watched the College grow in so many ways. The return you get from Rollins is that it draws you closer to the campus community that is now spread all over the nation and world. It's much the same good feeling you get as a student."

Last spring, Tom and Ruth were very active in the planning of their 25th class reunion. This year, they have agreed to serve as co-chairs of the College's Parents Committee, and Tom will serve as Parent Trustee. One of their goals, duPont says, will be to help make parents more aware of the role they can play in helping Rollins become an even stronger institution.

The duPonts are reliving their Rollins experience vicariously as their daughters attend the College. One of their particular joys has been witnessing in recent years the growing stature of a Rollins education. "When I graduated, Rollins was a very small school in a very small corner of the world," he said. "Now,

Florida is on the verge of becoming the third largest state in the nation. The educational opportunities in Florida have gone from mediocre to superb, and Rollins College's reach throughout the world is truly remarkable. I've bumped into parents in Vail, Colorado and Nantucket, Massachusetts. Once, we were salmon fishing in the grass flats of Prince William Sound in Alaska. This guy lands in his float plane and comes up the river and is fishing near us. We break for a sandwich and we get to talking. Turns out his daughter also goes to Rollins. What a wonderful institution to have that kind of reach."—LRH

ORLANDO HALL

BUILT IN 1948, THIS TWO-STORY STRUCTURE WAS DESIGNED BY GEORGE H. SPOHN ESPECIALLY FOR ROLLINS' INNOVATIVE CONFERENCE PLAN OF EDUCATION. ORLANDO HALL WAS GIVEN TO ROLLINS AS A GIFT OF THE CITIZENS OF ORLANDO. IT IS RUMORED THAT THE ORIGINAL LARGE, OVAL-SHAPED, SOLID WOOD TABLES WERE PUT IN PLACE BEFORE THE WALLS WERE BUILT, AS THEY COULD NOT POSSIBLY HAVE FIT THROUGH THE DOORS OR WINDOWS.

SANDSPUR FIELD

SANDSPUR FIELD, AKA THE "SANDSPUR BOWL," HAS BEEN THE SITE OF ROLLINS SPORTING EVENTS SINCE IT WAS CHRISTENED BY THE ROLLINS FOOTBALL TEAM BACK IN THE EARLY 1900s. IT GOT ITS NAME FOR OBVIOUS REASONS—THE FOOTBALL PLAYERS OFTEN BROKE OUT IN BOILS DUE TO SANDSPURS LEAVING BARBS IN THEIR SKIN. ALUMNI WILL BE HAPPY TO KNOW THAT THE FIELD IS STILL HERE—BUT THE SANDSPURS ARE GONE! THE SANDSPUR'S ELECTRONIC SCOREBOARD WAS A 1994 GIFT OF THE FLORIDA COCA COLA BOTTLING COMPANY.

GENTLEMAN & SCHOLAR

HUGH FERGUSON McKEAN

Hugh Ferguson McKean was born in Beaver Falls, Pennsylvania, in 1908. He passed away at his home, Windsong, in Winter Park, on May 6, 1995, 65 years after his graduation from Rollins College and 44 years after he became its tenth president.

The McKean family moved to Orlando in 1920, and Hugh attended Orlando High School, as well as the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. In 1926 he entered Rollins College, where he majored in English and art, and made a name for himself on campus as a founder of X-Club, editor of the College literary magazine, The Flamingo, and football player.

McKean was also making a name for himself in the art world, regularly winning awards for his paintings. He continued to study painting after graduation, spending a summer at Louis Comfort Tiffany's Laurelton Hall as a fellow of the Tiffany Foundation, receiving a Carnegie Scholarship to pursue graduate studies at Harvard University, and earning a diploma from L'Ecole des Beaux-Arts Americaine in Fontainebleau, France.

In 1932 he joined the faculty of Rollins College as instructor of art, and he continued to teach art and art history for nearly 20 years, with interruptions to complete his Master of Arts degree at Williams College and to serve as a Lieutenant Commander in the intelligence corps of the U.S. Naval Reserve in World War II. His paintings continued to win awards, although he joked that he could not produce more than one Rembrandt every 15 years.

When the College found itself torn from within following the retirement of Hamilton Holt and the controversy surrounding his successor, Paul Wagner, it turned to Hugh McKean to heal its wounds. On May 13, 1951, it was announced that McKean had agreed to serve as acting president of the College, and the delighted students lifted their new leader to their shoulders and paraded him across the campus. "I think it frightened him at first, but then he realized what was happening and broke into a grin, and he was quite pleased," recalls Wilson Tate '51.

The Rollins community marked the beginning of the new era with a Festival of Light, including a candlelight procession, and the College newspaper, The Sandspur, proclaimed "The Rollins Renaissance." "It was a heady time to be a Rollins student," comments Jonathan Dunn-Rankin '57. A year later, McKean formally accepted the presidency, and the campus celebrated with the second Festival of Light.

As professor of art and chairman of the Division of Expressive Arts, the Rollins College Hugh McKean inherited was one he knew well. "When McKean became president, he was calm, collected, reasonable, a gift the school was privileged to have in time of need," says Jewel May Lewter '31, who knew McKean for more than 70 years. His commitment to his alma mater was one he described to a gathering of faculty, staff, and students in 1966: "You must remember that if I am the president, I am also a graduate of this college. As a student, I discovered certain things which have been invaluable to me in all the experiences of my life, especially the difficult ones. I want to preserve them for every student who walks this campus in all the years to come."

McKean's boyhood friend and neighbor, John Tiedtke, had become treasurer of the College in 1949, and together with Vice President Alfred J. Hanna, they worked to place the College on a firm footing and preserve the Rollins tradition. It was what Daniel

Matthews '55 describes as "a rebuilding time," and informing McKean's vision was a lifelong belief in the importance of the liberal arts. Early in his presidency he stated: "A liberal arts education should lead students to find out for themselves what it means to be human beings, it should replace their old world with a new world...; and it should engender in students a joy in being alive." Richard Trismen '57 recalls McKean's comment that "We may someday... discover intelligent life elsewhere in the universe, but those educated in the liberal arts will keep us from eating it."

McKean did not fit the image of the typical college president. He was easy-going, lighthearted, and accessible. When asked for three words to describe McKean, Faith Emeny Conger '54 replied, "Door always open," recalling how students felt welcome in his office. M. M. "Buck" Class II '57 confirms, "Everyone was approachable, sought out, respected."

The president's Wednesday-morning coffees, open to the campus, were especially popular, and McKean occasionally brought a surprise guest if someone of interest was visiting the College. Michael Del Colliano '72 remembers his astonishment when he realized he was sharing coffee and donuts with author Allen Drury.

J. Jay Mautner '61 describes his surprise at being invited to a reception for incoming freshmen at the McKean's New York City apartment and meeting a college president who preferred to be called "Hugh." He was even more surprised when he arrived on campus and Hugh remembered him.

GENTLEMAN & SCHOLAR

Hugh Ferguson McKean, academic son, colleague, teacher and inspirer of Youth, fine artist and exclusive clubman, during the many years in which you have been a member of the Rollins family, both as student and as teacher, you have ever been a leader, a liberal and constructive colleague, a pioneer in your chosen field of art instruction, and an example to your fellows of what the term "A gentleman and scholar" signifies.

"What fun it was on a lovely spring morning to paint the quaint little Dinky Station and afterwards to receive encouragement and gentle criticism from the handsome young professor."

Dorothy Shepherd Smith '33

HUGH FERGUSON McKEAN

Students and parents continued to marvel at McKean's memory throughout his career. Thirty-seven years after his graduation, Robert Boyle '50 wrote McKean, who had been his senior advisor, to sum up his career and offer his own critique of McKean's senior critique of Boyle. To Boyle's amazement, McKean dictated a response from his vacation home; they "exchanged chuckles," and even though they disagreed, both agreed they had been right!

When the Chapel bell was lodged temporarily in front of the Alumni House, softball players developed the habit of hitting the bell with their bats as they passed by after their games on the Sandspur Field. One day President McKean reportedly joined in, giving the bell a resounding thump. A new student warned him to stop because the president might become angry. "I AM the president," responded McKean.

That lack of presidential demeanor won McKean a multitude of friendships with students, although one student reported that McKean had been his first disappointment at Rollins. He had expected the College president to be more "presidential." As McKean told a group of students in 1957, "I talk the way I want to talk... I've heard college presidents talk, and I couldn't do it, and I'm not sure I'd want to anyway..." The hallmark soft-spoken, straightforward conversation was part of what Frank Barker '52 defines as McKean's style of leadership: "He knew exactly what he was doing; you hung on every word."

Indeed, McKean's story-telling and his wit have become almost legendary. "He had a great, creative sense of humor," comments John Tiedtke, and Lois Bartlett Tracy '29 cites "his Irish way" of telling stories. "One of the things I cherish," says Rollins president Rita Bornstein, "was that every time I saw him, he had a story for me."

An early element of the College's distress had been the termination of football, as a cost-cutting measure. While McKean did not reinstate football, he felt that Rollins needed a fall sport. He had seen a soccer match while stationed in India, and in 1956 he decided to launch a soccer team. He was joined in coaching by athletic director Joe Justice and chemistry professor Herbert Hellwege.

As McKean recounted at the Sports Hall of Fame Breakfast in 1985, he went to Abercrombie and Fitch to buy equipment: "I ended up getting only some shin guards and some balls, because I thought that was all we'd need." He enlisted the cooperation of the presidents of Florida Southern College and Stetson University, and intercollegiate soccer came to Florida. The first year Rollins recorded no wins, but the second year the College was named state champion!

Moseley Waite '58, a member of the first soccer team, characterizes the first year as "just a step above intramurals," but when the team performed well, McKean rewarded them with a Thanksgiving trip to Nassau to play a Bahamian team. According to Waite, it was a "humbling" experience.

McKean was once described as the only college president in America who was also a professional artist. He continued to paint throughout his presidency, although he later adopted a pseudonym to ensure unbiased evaluations of his work. He liked to visit the art studio when students were painting, offering quiet encouragement and sharing his work with them. For some alumni, like Jack Myers '42 and Chip Weston '70, art was the catalyst for lasting friendships with McKean.

Perhaps because he was an artist, McKean seemed endowed with an abundance of imagination and creativity. "He was good at thinking up something different from what was expected," recalls Sara Howden '35, Dean Emerita of Women. John Tiedtke cites continuing projects as diverse as Les Grandes Dames senior women's tennis tournament, an annual prize for the best Florida high school music student, and Christmas in the Park, which brings Tiffany windows and the Bach Festival Choir into Winter Park's Central Park for a special evening celebration each year.

One summer, rather than traveling to New Hampshire as they usually did, Hugh and his wife, Jeannette, spent the vacation redecorating Cloverleaf Cottage, a 56-room women's dormitory. On a visit to Chicago, the McKeans noticed the red carpeting being removed from one of the hallways in the Drake Hotel, so they purchased it—for Cloverleaf. All summer the McKeans refinished furniture, painted floors, stenciled walls, built headboards, and hung draperies, and when the students returned in the fall, they discovered a totally refurbished building. Each room had a different theme, from Gone with the Wind to a sheikh's tent, complete with red-and-white striped canopied ceiling.

The McKeans' commitment to beauty, and to bringing beauty to Rollins, was made tangible by the Living Museum, which decorated the campus with museum-quality paintings, tapestries, and furniture.

"The purpose of this," wrote McKean, "is to give the students an opportunity to increase their understanding and appreciation of good art." It is a lesson Jane Carrison Bockel '69 recalls immediately when she thinks of Hugh McKean today.

J. Jay Mautner also remembers the opportunities McKean created to expose Rollins students to art and culture, canceling classes to bring students to the Morse Gallery or to listen to and meet with the national marimba band of Guatemala. Like the Living Museum, McKean ensured that learning was a living experience.

And, of course, there was Fox Day.

In 1956 the Fox made its first appearance; President McKean canceled classes and invited everyone to spend the day "doing things as a college." Formerly teamed as one-half of President Holt's Orders of the Fox and the Cat, the statue of the Fox had been rescued by McKean as a symbol of family, a happy memory of his Pennsylvania childhood, where his father had told him stories of fox families. "He loved to share with his family, and sometimes the students were his family," comments Mary Ann "Winkie" Colado Page '57.

McKean's Fox Days included treasure hunts and softball games, and each traditionally ended with a meeting in the Chapel. Following a two-year hibernation, the Fox reappeared in 1963, accompanied by the first of its proclamations. The Fox's most spectacular arrival (to date) was no doubt in 1966, when it descended to the campus via helicopter.

Not all of McKean's days as president of Rollins were filled with fun and games, however. There were questions of finances, facilities, and curriculum.

With the return of the troops following World War II and the passage of the GI Bill, men were enrolling in college in record numbers. Rollins launched Operation Bootstrap, in conjunction with local Air Force bases and Patrick Air Force Base, on Florida's east coast. The program grew into the Central Florida School for Continuing Studies (now the Hamilton Holt School), and the Patrick Air Force Base unit generated Rollins' Brevard Campus (now located in Melbourne).

An early and avid supporter of technology and education, McKean was fascinated with the U.S. space endeavor and toyed with the idea of a space science research institute at Rollins. The Animated Magazine, a Holt innovation McKean continued, featured themes such as "Future Expedition to Mars," and Animag participants included visionary R. Buckminster Fuller, physicist Wernher von Braun, and NASA Associate Administrator Robert C. Seamans, Jr. Master's degree programs in physics and engineering physics were inaugurated in 1964.

HUGH FERGUSON McKEAN

Graduate programs in teaching and business administration were also added, and the gift of $1 million from financier Roy E. Crummer in 1965 secured Rollins' position in business education through the Roy E. Crummer School of Finance and Business Administration. With characteristic reference to the College's liberal arts tradition, the School was described as seeking "to strengthen the human element in business."

In 1969, McKean announced his decision to leave the presidency. He had sat in the president's chair for 18 years, and could claim a balanced budget, an endowment that had more than quadrupled, an enrollment that had grown from 600 to 1,000, nine new major buildings, and significant changes in the educational complexion of the College.

His administration introduced the Honor's Degree Program, the study-abroad program, How-to-Study Week (a precursor of freshman orientation), the Center for Practical Politics, and the first college language laboratory in Florida. During his tenure as president, WPRK went on the air, the Placement Bureau opened its doors, and Rollins was the first college in Florida elected to the College Entrance Examination Board.

While Hugh McKean may have retired from the presidency of Rollins College, he certainly did not retire. He became chancellor of the College and chairman of the College's board of trustees. His role as an unorthodox educator continued, with the publication of "Let's give the students what they want," in the March 1972 issue of Ladies' Home Journal. The article suggested "courageous and creative thinking" on the part of educators, and espoused giving students "an education sensibly related to themselves and their lives." "He refused to see them as anything other than young people who were still learning," recalls Sara Howden. Dr. Arnold Wettstein, Dean Emeritus of the Knowles Memorial Chapel and professor of philosophy, adds, "The students loved him so because he believed in them."

"Let's give the students what they want" drew a raft of responses, most approving, but some questioning the author's judgment. It was typical McKean, the same attitude and response that disarmed an angry mob of students who had marched on the president's home, and ended the evening cheering him.

As early as 1968, McKean had seen the electronic writing on the wall, and had begun actively promoting the marriage of technology and education. His proposal for a university without walls, which would utilize television and other media to reach a broad public audience, became a pet project. It was endorsed nationally, and McKean went so far as to seek support from the Florida legislature. "We will never find a way to send every Floridian to college," he said, "but we could send college to every Floridian." "He had phenomenal perception and judgment that frequently was far ahead of his times," opines John Tiedtke; technology is just now on the verge of catching up with McKean's dream.

In 1941 Rollins trustee Jeannette Morse Genius (later Mrs. Hugh McKean) had contributed funds for the construction of the Morse Gallery of Art on the Rollins campus. Hugh McKean was named the Gallery's director in 1945, when he returned from military duty.

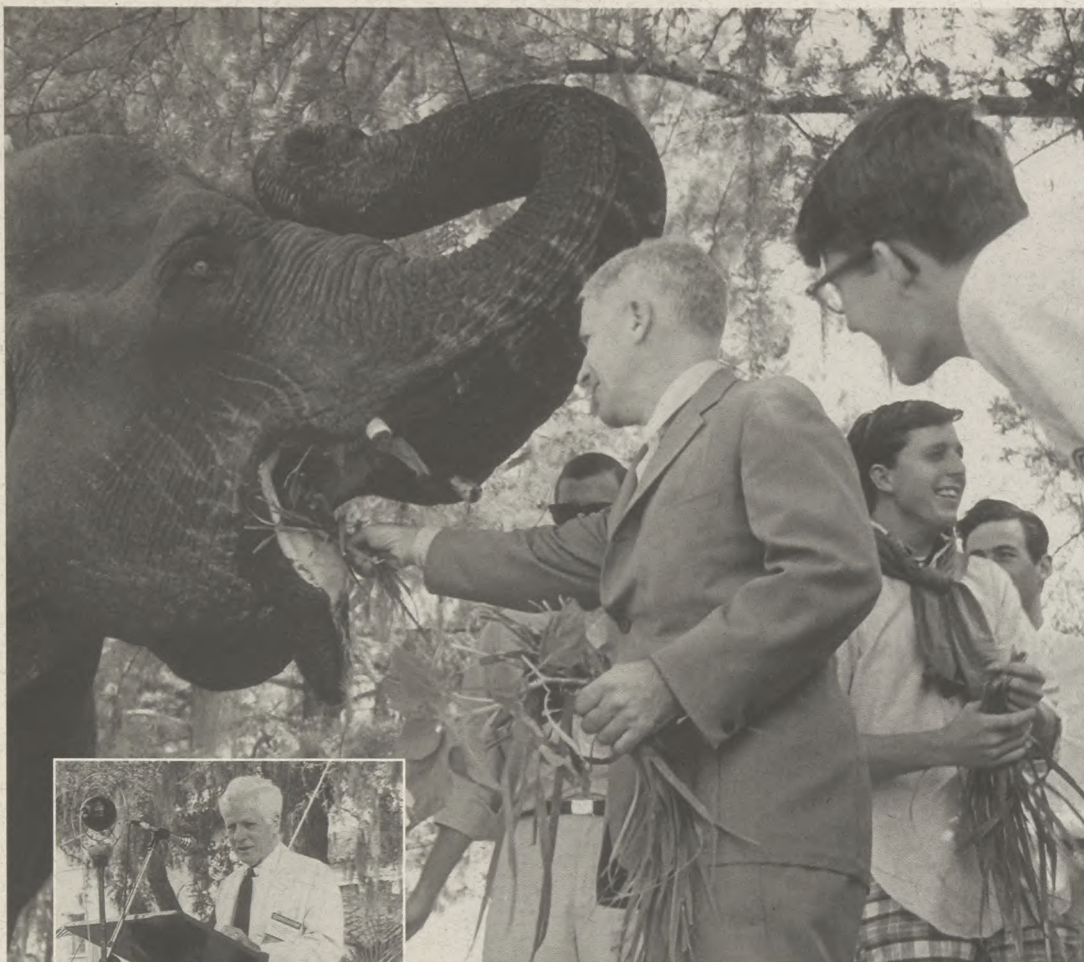

In 1957 Louis Comfort Tiffany's Laurelton Hall, where McKean had studied, was destroyed by fire. The McKeans were contacted by Tiffany's daughter, who suggested that they might want to tour the remains before the building was demolished. To their astonishment, they found furniture, bronze lanterns, and entire stained glass windows, and they proceeded to purchase and move every piece they could salvage. The McKeans' collection of the works of Louis Comfort Tiffany, which would become the largest private collection in the world, had begun.

Following his retirement from the board of trustees in 1975, together with Jeannette, McKean focused his attention and energy on the Charles Hosmer Morse Museum of American Art and its collection of paintings, art pottery, and Tiffany treasures. From its first small home in the Morse Gallery at Rollins to its later location on Welbourne Avenue in downtown Winter Park, to its magnificent new site on north Park Avenue, the McKeans devoted loving attention to the preservation and exhibition of this important collection.

It is ironic that the new Morse Museum, which opened on July 4, stands on the site of an old hotel that was used to house Rollins men, including McKean advisee Bob Boyle. It is especially lamentable that neither Jeannette nor Hugh McKean lived to see their dream realized, but their legacy stands as a tribute to their commitment to bring beauty to everyday life. As Connie Mack Butler '55 notes, "[T]hey used their God-given gifts to make our college a better college, our community a better community, our lives a better life, and finally the world a better world."

At the campus tribute to Hugh McKean, President Emeritus Thaddeus Seymour remarked, "Every day of his life Rollins was a part of his commitment.... Seventy years since he arrived as a freshman, almost two-thirds of the history of the College." On the same occasion, President Rita Bornstein captured the College community's feelings: "Dr. McKean was a devoted son and leader of Rollins as well as a great citizen of Winter Park. He was also a caring friend. I will miss him."

Then remember this. Some things do defy the years. The campus sand will be the same. The squirrels will never go. The sky will roll with the same rhythm, blue, white and blue, gray, darkness splashed with stars... And, also, think of this. Spring will always come, and always with it hope and that will last as long as time; and that is well.

AND, FINALLY, that quiet word of friends which heralds change and hints at feelings deep and difficult to say —farewell.

AFTERWORD

Hugh McKean was president when I came to Rollins, so I, too, have memories.

Between 1951 and 1969, literally thousands of students called Rollins home and Hugh McKean president. It goes without saying that I could not talk with all of them, nor could I include here all the comments of those with whom I spoke. I heard stories that touched the heart, and tales that tickled the funny bone. All of them have been transcribed for the College archives—from former registrar Dorothy (Dolly) Koehler Reed's "He was a gentle gentleman," to Wilson Tate's "The McKeanes were 100-percent Rollins," to Buck Class's assessment: "He did represent an era... It was a different time and the words stress, harassment, culture-shock were not on campus as active vocabulary. It was for me the last protected time I would ever enjoy."

Hugh McKean followed in Hamilton Holt's footsteps, but he was no one other than Hugh McKean. For McKean and Rollins, it was a matter of the right place and the right time, a convergence John Oliver Rich '38, who had returned to the College to head the admissions office in 1949, describes as irreproducible, "unique": "It's just one of those things that happens."—LKR '70

ALTHOUGH THE RESIDENCE HALLS TODAY ENJOY MANY OF THE CONVENIENCES OF THE '90s, THEY RETAIN MUCH OF THEIR ORIGINAL CHARM. PUGSLEY AND MAYFLOWER HALLS WERE BUILT IN 1930 BY ARCHITECT RICHARD KIEHNEL. MAYFLOWER, A GIFT OF J. MALCOLM FORBES, CONTAINS PART OF A BEAM FROM THE ORIGINAL MAYFLOWER SHIP. PUGSLEY, GIVEN BY CORNELIUS A. PUGSLEY, IS CHARACTERIZED BY ITS ORNATE ENTRYWAY.

CURTAIN CALL

"Helping students tap their own talents, that is the thing that makes me proud of what I did at Rollins."

—Bob Juergens

The life of the theatre, like that of a man, evolves. It is more than just an accumulation of play bills; more than the electrifying performance, the brilliant direction; much more than the tears evoked, the laughter won, the lessons taught. It is also marked by the risks taken, the ideas fought for, the thoughts that grow from failure. It is the energy, the courage, the wisdom, the undeniable and unremitting generosity of spirit required of the truly creative.

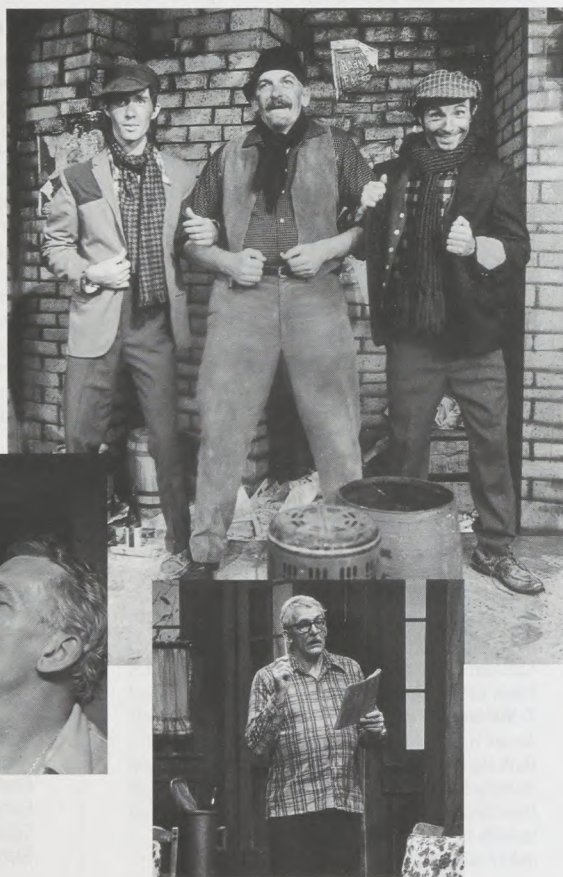

For the past 29 seasons, Robert O. Juergens, professor, director, actor, was the Annie Russell Theatre. D.J. bequeathed to Rollins College a treasury of academic and artistic knowledge. His scholarship and directorial and performance achievements touched the imaginations of thousands of students, colleagues, and patrons.

On April 27, our beloved D.J. died at his home. In loving memory, many friends, alumni, and students have made offerings for the establishment of the Robert O. Juergens Memorial Scholarship in Theatre. The scholarship will be administered by the faculty of the Theatre Department and will be awarded on the basis of academic excellence, need, and production commitment.

I am confident that together we can build a significant scholarship fund that will give perpetuity to D.J.'s memory and encouragement to his theatrical heirs. Please send your contributions to:

Producing Director, Chairman

ROBERT O. JUERGENS

- Directed Rollins Theatre Department, 1971-79
- Expanded programs of student-directed projects, summer theatre, and Fred Stone Theatre productions
- Oversaw production of Equus in 1979 despite community protest and legal injunction

These highlights only scratch the surface of Bob Juergen's contributions to his students and the Annie Russell Theatre at Rollins College. As Dr. Arthur Wagner, D.J.'s predecessor as theatre director, recalled: "He had an immediate rapport with students, and they responded well to him. He knew how to work with actors..."

Juergens was a devoted Shakespeare worshipper, directing a number of the Bard's works and acting in several others. As a fitting final performance on the Annie Russell stage, he played King Lear, capturing magnificently Lear's tragic majesty.

A self-styled traditionalist, D.J. brought many avant garde works, such as Equus and On the Verge, to the Rollins stage. Professional actor Bill McNulty '64 remembers him as "always generous and open to ideas." Another of Juergen's proteges, Jeff Storer '75, commented, "The energy of the program he led taught us that we could do anything we wanted. He taught us that anything was possible."

"He provided a safe and supportive environment in which actors felt free to invent," said McNulty. "He was a very intelligent and perceptive teacher, and he encouraged his students to learn their strengths not only in acting, but in all aspects of their lives."

CARLO ROOM TO HONOR MEMORY OF BELOVED ROLLINS MUSICIAN

Dedication set for October 22

The Carlo Room of Keene Hall at Rollins College will be dedicated on October 22, 1995 in honor of the memory of Distinguished Professor Emeritus of Music Alphonse Carlo and his wife Katherine, an accomplished concert pianist. Winter Park native Charles Rex, associate concertmaster of the New York Philharmonic and a former violin student of Dr. Carlo, will perform a dedicatory recital at 3:00 p.m. in the Knowles Memorial Chapel. The dedication ceremony and reception will be held in Keene Hall immediately following the recital.

For 50 years, Alphonse Carlo was one of Central Florida's most beloved musicians. He taught music at Rollins for 37 years, retiring in 1979. He also played for the Bach Festival for 49 years (40 as concertmaster) and helped found the Florida Symphony Orchestra, which he served as concertmaster from 1950-79, and the Florida Symphony Youth Orchestra.

"He loved to play the violin. He loved to teach, and he did both practically and incessantly," said John Tiedtke, president of the Bach Festival of Winter Park. "Every place he worked, people liked him."

ALPHONSE CARLO

The violin sonata Charles Rex will play during the dedicatory recital was actually written by his father Charles Gordon Rex '46 when he was a student of Carlo. The composition itself was lost for many years, but was rediscovered by Rex in a storage box after his father's death in 1973. Rex was so moved by the beauty of the sonata's opening theme that he had the notes carved into his father's gravestone, and he has since performed the piece extensively.

fund contributions and long-term gift arrangements.

Earlier this year, Henderson contacted

MIMI STEFIK HENDERSON '79

the Office of Planned Giving and arranged to purchase a life insurance policy for the benefit of the College. With this arrangement, she makes modest annual contributions to Rollins (which are tax-deductible) and the College then uses these contributions to pay the premiums on her policy. She discovered that gifts of life insurance are especially appropriate for those who are young, since they are not expensive and allow individuals to make a substantial gift at a later date.

Says Henderson, "This gift arrangement enables me to continue my support of The Rollins Fund and to make a significant gift to the College down the line. Being on the Alumni Association board taught me the importance of annual giving and building the College's future. This way, I can do both."

Now, that's par for the course.

If you would like more information about making a gift of life insurance, please contact: Marina C. Nice '83, Director of Planned Giving, Rollins College, 1000 Holt

Mimi Stefik Henderson '79 came to Rollins to enjoy a liberal arts education and be able to play golf at the same time. Even now, she often finds herself in tournaments with other Rollins graduates—regardless of where she plays. Her appreciation for the education she received in the classroom and on the greens continues to grow and is reflected in her commitment to Rollins.

While serving on the Alumni Association Board of Directors, Henderson learned the importance of helping to support the College — through both regular annual

BUILDING ON THE LEGACY OF ANNUAL GIVING

Over the past three years, young alumni giving to The Rollins Fund has made significant strides both in dollars and participation. Starting in 1991, special attention was given to the five youngest classes. This initial effort resulted in a 78% increase in dollars and a 75% increase in participation. For the past three years, young alumni have continued the momentum. The success is directly attributable to the class agent volunteers who educate and inform their classmates about what The Rollins Fund is and the importance of their participation.

Thirty-eight percent of Rollins alumni graduated within the last ten years. With young alumni comprising over one-third of the entire alumni population, the impact recent graduates can make on the College's participation figure is substantial. This number is important. Many corporations and foundations considering gifts to Rollins look at the percentage of alumni giving to the annual fund. Young alumni donors are vital to improving this figure.

The need for gifts to The Rollins Fund is evident in the numbers. The reasons young alumni give reflect personal experiences, as they continue connections with their alma mater.

Young alumni are an ongoing testament to the value of a Rollins education. As donors to The Rollins Fund, young alumni do make a difference by contributing to the College's initiatives to sustain excellence in a Rollins education.

"Rollins was always there for me as a student. I believe there is a constant need, and I'd like to contribute as much as I can for today's students. The percentage of alumni who give is just as important as the amount, especially from recent classes. I encourage everyone to give, no matter how modest the amount may be."

KNOW YOUR ALUMNI BOARD

Timothy Brown '67

Timothy Brown '67 says that serving as a member of the Alumni Board has allowed him to reconnect with his alma mater and has reminded him of the value of his Rollins education.

"I had attended some alumni activities in the Boston area," he recalled. "When I was asked to serve on the board in 1993, the timing was right. Over the previous couple of years, I had made a conscious decision to reconnect, to give something back to Rollins and ensure others got what I got and more. I wanted to do this is because I believe alumni are an integral part of the future of any college. Our aspirations arise out of our history."

Although his career has taken him far and away, the memories of his days at Rollins have never strayed far from Brown's mind. Following high school graduation, he worked on a summer archeological dig in New Mexico and lived on the University of New Mexico campus. The experience convinced him that a smaller liberal arts school was right for him. He was impressed by what he heard about Rollins from friends, and his first year at the College proved them right.

Brown says he was so stimulated by the variety of subject matter available at Rollins, he just "ricocheted" around campus, taking courses in disciplines as diverse as Latin American studies, political science, business, and geology. "The professors were wonderful," he added. "I particularly remember Dr. Dudley DeGroot, who taught sociology. In addition to his academic background, he served as mayor of Maitland and was a former professional football player. Sociology isn't something you would necessarily want to pursue as a career, but he made the subject matter come alive, and provided me with world perspectives and values that have acted as a gyroscope ever since."

Brown was active in campus life at Rollins. He served as president of the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, twice served as president of his class, served on Upper Court, was active in a half dozen student committees, and played on various intramural sports teams. Although he has maintained contact with some of his former classmates over the years, Brown says he would like to spend more time in the future reconnecting with old friends. "That's one of the reasons I enjoy going back to the reunions and other alumni events. It's a wonderful time for connecting."

After graduating from Rollins with a degree in finance in 1967, Brown joined the Financial Management Program at General Electric in their Apollo Systems Division. A year later, he went to work for the Xerox Corporation, where he would spend the next decade on assignments in this country and with Rank Xerox in London.

"I believe the primary advantage Rollins gave me for working in the real world is the ability to deal with the constant change and the interchange that takes place between customers, associates, partners, and others," he said. "I worked with graduates of Ivy League schools and they had no advantage. In fact, I would say that the Rollins concept of small classes and exchange of ideas provided an advantage. At Rollins, the learning environment is one of constantly being challenged as opposed to sitting in a classroom with 400 students, getting writer's cramp. Whatever your field of study, those disciplines of study, of taking responsibility, of being open to new ideas, of having the confidence to express your own position on a subject are the qualities that give you the advantage."

After 10 years with Xerox, Brown left to help start an oil and gas exploration company to utilize his management skills in a more entrepreneurial environment. In 1983, he received an offer to become a partner in a real estate investment firm, and three years later, struck out to create his own marketing consulting firm. Today, his company, Solutions Management, represents clients primarily throughout the eastern half of the United States.

"I love the feeling of being able to set my own sail, look at opportunities, and make a contribution wherever I am," he said. "I love doing it on my own, my time is more productive. I don't have to get involved in unnecessary meetings and non-productive activities. Looking back, I don't know how I did anything else."

As the new president of the Alumni Board of Directors, Brown says his vision is for Rollins to have the best small college alumni association in America. He wants to enhance communication with Rollins alumni and make them aware of how valuable their degrees are today. "We need to do a better job of communicating what the College is all about today. Also, we need to provide services that respond to the changing needs of the alumni so that they want to reconnect. There's an old Chinese proverb that says if you don't change directions, you may end up where you headed. It may not be what we want, but we must ensure we are headed in the right direction. We have an incredibly strong, talented, and committed alumni board and an exceptional alumni director. We have a lot of energy and ideas. Our challenge is to establish our goals and a vision of what the Alumni Association should look like in the year 2000. We welcome the contribution of all alumni."—LRH

Tim Webber '81 Caters to Customer Needs

Tim Webber doesn't wear a red bow tie. It's his company that wears it.

The red bow tie is Tim Webber Catering's signature, and it's part of Webber's creative bent.

Webber, a Rollins College graduate with a degree in advertising, never expected to go into catering. But once he got into it, his experience as an advertising sales manager came into his handy.

The bow tie was the first creative step. Company mottoes, like "On budget. On time. On stage." And "Accept no substitutes," came later.

Webber's business has undergone several name and specialty changes over the years, but his core business has stayed the same.

And, as most successful entrepreneurs have discovered, his primary focus is to "take care of clients."

"If someone expects something, our job is to reach those expectations and more," he says. "If you do a good job, you work with people, you're flexible and you care, then people will want to use you."

The Hartford, Conn., native broke into entrepreneurship with Tim Webber Bartending in 1978, while he still was a student at Rollins.

In 1986, the company became Tim Webber's Food and Grain Restaurant in Winter Park. In 1988, Webber dropped the restaurant to concentrate on catering.

He outgrew the Winter Park facility and, in 1990, he relocated to the 12,000-square-foot commissary at 300 E. South Street in downtown Orlando.

Now he can take care of business.

Since 1978, Webber has grown his company to 10 trucks, 28 full-time and more than 150 part-time workers.

Webber keeps his original truck parked out in front of his new facility. It's a 1974 AMG mail van with 83,000 miles on it. Webber drove that truck around himself for two years until he was able to add employees.

In recent years, the company has moved beyond simple catering into special events. It also has added Hog Heaven barbecue and southern cuisine.

It's not fair to call us a caterer," Webber says. "We're more than a caterer. We're a special events company."

"Everybody can do food and beverage, but we have to do it differently," he says. "We create images."

Special events and convention catering make up 50 percent of the company's business. Thirty percent is corporate business; 10 percent, weddings; and 10 percent, private parties. The company also does themed parties.

Webber owns its own glassware, china, silverware, tables, chairs and holiday decor. Food is prepared in ovens on-site. Webber has its own greenhouse to provide plants for events as well.

The largest gathering Tim Webber Catering has ever done had 4,400 people. But, he says, "We've fed 10,000 in a day."

"Size is no problem," Webber says.

The catering company recently transformed a warehouse into an elegant dining room at the fairgrounds for the Economic Development Commission's annual barbecue. About 800 people attended. Webber used a Florida citrus theme. The decor included baskets of oranges, potted plants, corn husks, renditions of old Florida postcards and boiled peanuts.

The EDC has been a client of Webber's for 5 1/2 years.

Melanie Forbrick, public relations director for the EDC and former events director, says Webber is "very creative—a very service-oriented company. I think he holds a very strong reputation. I've never done an event where he personally was not on-site. He's very hands-on and takes a lot of personal responsibility for his work."

"The service is the real key," she says. "The EDC... we're fairly demanding."

Webber has added several big names to his clientele this year, including Tupperware, Florida Citrus Sports, Orlando Auto Auction's Greater Orlando Cafe and Cypress Island.

He also counts among his clients the Nestle Invitationl at Bay Hill and Harry P. Leu Gardens.

Webber has the reputation of being a bit pricey in this town of deep discounts. That doesn't phase Webber. "No one complains about our quality, about our service, about what they get for their dollars," he adds.

"Where we get a lot of our business is we've developed a reputation of delivering what we said we'd deliver. On time, on budget, onstage—all the way."
