

(such sanguineus anatomies) lingering, you rose up again in my throat with that familiar viscosity of being a thing unloved but there was very little left-over from eons of ejections so with imprecise strokes i liberated anatomies and with precisely hemmed stitches i rend flesh from flesh from bone

by Luc Lasman

