Annual report 2004-2005
Student Life Committee (SLC)

During the 04-05 academic years, the Academic Honor Code was the only item considered by the SLC. The committee inherited a draft developed by the academic integrity task force during the 03-04 academic years. Initial discussions concerned the nature of the document produced by the task force. Later the committee considered the recommendations made by the faculty colloquium held at the end of the fall term and made the appropriate changes. During the spring term the committee made the changes recommended by two presentations of the document to the Executive Committee. In addition, the committee started the process of consulting with the students. Once the Executive committee allowed the document to proceed to the faculty, it was discussed two consecutive faculty meetings. Following those meetings, in which the initial document failed to pass, the Executive committee took the initiative of proposing to the faculty a set of Honor Code principles that passed on the faculty meeting of April 28, 2005. The last work of the committee was reviewing the statement of principles to make sure that it reflected the intent of the Executive Committee.

Respectfully submitted,
