Alysia N. Rivers Rodriguez

PAINT

My name is Alysia Rivers Rodriguez, and I am a 22-year-old student at Rollins College. I am studying clinical psychology in pursuit of becoming a therapist. For as long as I can remember, I have used visual art to express complex emotions or experiences and this piece is a product of that practice. As I've grown as an artist, I have begun to express the different psychological phenomena that I have become aware of throughout my undergraduate career. Although I have assigned meaning to this piece, I encourage you to speculate your meaning before integrating mine. To me, this blue mountain horizon is conveying the law of attraction and manifestation. Manifestation is when your mind, body, and soul interact in a way that can cause a shift in your spirit or forces that affect your spirit. This combined with the law of attraction or the idea that you attract what you put out can be a powerful tool.
