September 30, 1926.

Faculty met with Dean Carrothers.

Mrs. Cass, Registrar, reported 253 students enrolled exclusive of music students. 8 or 10 specials.

It was announced that requests had come in for folk dancing. Coach Orr said that he planned to have something of that nature in the spring.

President Holt then suggested that we have an "experience meeting" and each professor report on what he had accomplished with the new two hour system.

Every professor responded and the consensus of opinion was that the change was promising to be a success, although it had not been in operation long enough to give opinions in full. Much discussion ensued and many valuable suggestions were made.

The Committee on Advanced Credits reported "that in their judgment each instructor should study the amount of work accomplished in his courses during the coming semester, and report to the Committee at the end of it whether a readjustment should be made in the credit announced for the course."

The Radio Committee reported that Rollins College hours would be 7:55 to 8:55 Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings for the year.

After a delightful talk from Doctor Thwing, the meeting adjourned.
