

Agenda, May 2, 2007

Busy Colleagues:

The A&S faculty will be holding its last meeting of the year this Wednesday, May 2 (Reading Day) at 12:00 NOON. (Please note the non-standard time).

A savory and nutritious lunch will be provided, followed by brief post-prandial musical entertainment. The official meeting will begin around 12:30 or so.

There will be a few items of formal business -- please have a look at the attached agenda. Among the most important items will be the (conditional) approval of the candidates for graduation on May 13th. The list of candidates is posted on the main governance page (and can be linked-to here):

Please take a look, too, at the minutes from the last meeting (attached), with an eye toward possible additions or corrections.

Let me know if there are additional announcements or items of business that should be included in the meeting's agenda.

I look forward to seeing you as we celebrate together.

Many thanks.
